These stamps were issued on May 25, 1971 to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the Tay Son rebellion. In the 1770's a massive peasant rebellion against the ruling Nguyen princes was led by three brothers from the village of Tay Son (in what is now Binh Dinh province) swept across the central and southern provinces of Viet-Nam.

Brilliant military commanders, the brothers, in a series of lightning campaigns, marched up the coastal plain, broke through the Gates of Annam, and conquered the Trinh dynasty in the north. However, the brothers failed to create an effective reform government, and when their peasant supporters became disillusioned, the Nguyen prince Gia Long regained control of the entire country in 1802.

The stamps were designed by Le Toan. They depict Emperor Quang Trung liberating Hanoi. He was the brother, Nguyen Van Hue, who established himself at Hanoi.

The above stamps were issued on June 20, 1972 to mark the 3,500th aircraft shot down. The numbers used by Viet-Nam differed from the Pentagon's numbers. For example, when North Viet-Nam was commemorating the 2,500th aircraft shot down, the Pentagon said only 324 fixed wings and 4 helicopters had been lost. The black stamp bears the actual date, April 20, 1972, on which the 3,500th aircraft was brought down.

VIET-NAM

This is the eighth of a total of nine sets of stamps that were issued to commemorate various milestones on North Viet-Nam's act of shooting down 4,181 American airplanes from 1964 through 1973. The above stamps were issued on October 17, 1972 to mark the 4,000th aircraft shot down. The numbers used by Viet-Nam differed from the Pentagon's numbers. For example, when North Viet-Nam was commemorating the 2,500th aircraft shot down, the Pentagon said only 324 fixed wings and 4 helicopters had been lost. Both stamps depict an anti-aircraft gunner. The purple stamp was designed by Tuan Nguyen Hiep, and the other stamp was designed by Huy Khanh.
