Hardy & Bacon. 'The Stamp Collector' p 92. illus: 98 p 129

In 1889 a set of seven stamps was printed and placed on sale in Paris, purporting to be issued by the King of Seland. This personage turned out to be an ex officer of the French navy, named De Mayreana, who assumed on his return to Paris the title of King Marie I of Seland - a tribe inhabiting a small district on the borders of the French Colony of Annam. The French Govt. stopped proceedings to set up a protectorate of Seland villages. None of the stamps ever saw the country (?).
