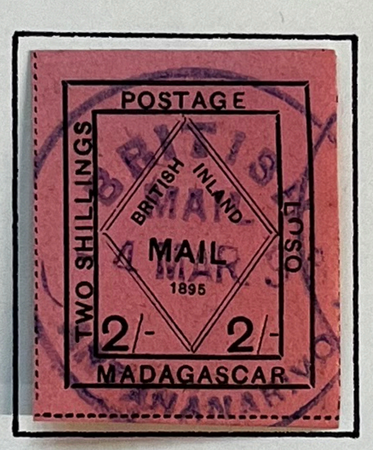
BRITISH INLAND MAIL

At the beginning of the French war of occupation, in January 1895, the British established a local post for the conveyance of letters between Antananarivo, the capital of Madagascar, and the port of Vatomandry. As to whether this post was semi-official in nature or merely speculation on the part of a syndicate in Antananarivo, opinions vary. The post was suppressed in September 1895 when the French entered the capital.

1895 (Jan.) Type-set at Antananarivo. Rouletted in black.



1895 (Mar.) Litho., John Haddon & Co., London.
