Ruanda Van Eyck • Bonnevalle • David

JAN VAN EYCK (morto in Bruges verso il 1440-41) ed Hubert van Eyck (morto in Gand nel 1426) erano parenti e forse fratelli. Di questi due eccelsi artisti, che sono giustamente considerati i massimi esponenti della pittura fiamminga primitiva, gli esperti non sono giunti sinora a distinguere le opere dell'uno da quelle dell'altro e si ritiene che talvolta essi abbiano lavorato congiuntamente ad un medesimo dipinto. Il polittico detto dell'Adorazione dell'Angelo mistico è indubbiamente la più famosa opera dei van Eyck; probabilmente fu eseguita da Jan, ma in qualche suo punto vi è forse anche la mano di Hubert. Tale polittico, che è la più grandiosa espressione d'arte dell'epoca, venne terminato nel maggio 1432; composto di dodici parti, una delle quali – Gli angeli musicisti – è riprodotta nel francobollo, fu eseguito per una cappella gentilizia nella chiesa di S. Bavone in Gand.

OSCAR BONNEVALLE è un pittore non ancora noto al pubblico, un artista di cui sino ad oggi non si sono occupati i dizionari dedicati alle arti figurative. È quindi uno sconosciuto che però, si deve subito aggiungere, tra non molto sarà in evidenza ed avrà una meritata notorietà. Per ora Bonnevalle ci è stato presentato dalle poste della Repubblica Ruandese, che ce ne offrono un bel dipinto – Il cavapietre – di stile prettamente veristico che si direbbe legato a certe moderne scuole dell'Europa orientale e dal quale si può per prima cosa desumere che forse si tratta di un pittore operante in Africa. Benché la figura del guidatore del carro lasci un po' perplessi sulla razza cui appartiene, ci sembra infatti che i due bovini dalle grandi corna ed i loro finimenti siano caratteristici di un paese lontano, mentre le ombre molto marcate fanno pensare ad un sole infuocato.

JACQUES-LOUIS DAVID (Parigi, 1748 - Bruxelles, 1825) è uno dei più famosi artisti dell'epoca napoleonica, che dopo essere passato attraverso la bufera della rivoluzione francese divenne nel 1804 "primo pittore" del Bonaparte. Inizialmente la sua produzione consistette in dipinti di scene dell'antichità classica, ispirategli anche da un suo soggiorno romano, poi si trasformò in un cronista di Napoleone in guerra ed in pace. Il dipinto che la Repubblica Ruandese ha raffigurato nel francobollo è indubbiamente il più noto del David, e continua a piacere anche se questo condottiero che valica il Gran San Bernardo sembri uscire dal palcoscenico di un teatro anziché dalla scalata di un duro passo montano. Fra i molti dipinti del pittore i ritratti di personaggi, in gran parte femminili, sono indubbiamente i migliori e ci danno la vera misura dell'arte di David.
